

Additional Terms and Conditions for EgoSecure Endpoint Security

Open Source

Parts of the Software contain open source software from third party providers that is subject to third party terms and conditions (“Third Party Provider Terms and Conditions”). A list of all open source software from third party providers and the associated Third Party Provider Terms and Conditions is available in the Software notice.txt file. In the event of a contradiction between the terms and conditions of a third party and the Terms and Conditions of this Agreement, the terms and conditions of the third party shall take precedence, however solely in connection with the third party’s relevant open source software. EgoSecure shall accept no guarantee or liability in relation to open source software from third party providers.

Certain elements of the Software are available on the Internet. In order to use the Software or certain Software features, the Licensee must (i) enter the numerical code (“license key”) provided by EgoSecure; (ii) the Licensee may be asked to create or use a user account. The Licensee shall be solely responsible for all activities that take place in its account and must keep its user account password and license key in a safe place. The Licensee must inform EgoSecure without delay of any unauthorized use of its user account or license key.

Upon expiry or termination of its license to use the Software, the Licensee must stop using the Software and permanently delete or return all copies of the Software and documentation (together with the associated license key) and confirm that it has done so in writing.

EgoSecure may terminate a granted license extraordinarily in the event of a violation of the above terms and conditions.